TUSCON COLORED MAN GETS BRIDE IN SALT LAKE.

In the role of matchmaker W. W. Taylor, editor of the Utah Plain Dealer, has proven himself a success by starting a romance that has culminated in the marriage of a Salt Lake colored girl of marked accomplishments and a prominent colored citizen of Tucson, Ariz. Mr. Taylor as Cupid's agent carried a photograph across the desert and a courtship was launched and carried on until two paths merged into one at the altar.

The bride is Miss Marie Howell, a young colored girl of this city, who has distinguished herself among her people by her accomplishments. She was for some time corresponding secretary of the Western Negro Press association, queen of the annual celebration here and is a china painter of marked ability. The groom is George W. Bragg, a prominent colored barber of Tucson.

Mr. Taylor was visiting in Tucson about a year ago and while there was a guest of Mr. Bragg. The latter, before Mr. Taylor's departure, asked the Salt Lake editor if he knew a nice and accomplished girl in his home city whom he might correspond with, with a view to matrimony, should Dan Cupid deigned.

Mr. Taylor replied in the affirmative and promised to make preliminary arrangements for the opening of the correspondence. A photograph of Mr. Bragg was brought across the desert by the editor and it was shown to Miss Howell. The groom-to-be was introduced in this novel manner. Miss Howell, at the request of Mr. Taylor, wrote to her new acquaintance. In this manner a correspondence was started between the two. Later there was an exchange of photos. Then Dan Cupid took matters in his own hands and an engagement followed.

A few days ago Miss Howell suddenly took her departure from this city, and among her friends it was supposed she had gone to Honolulu on a trip. Since then it has been learned that the young woman, instead of continuing her trip to the western isle, changed her course and went to Tucson. There she was met by the man of her choice, whom up to this time she knew only by photograph and correspondence. The announcement of the marriage of the couple soon followed.

An Accomplished Young Woman.

Miss Howell is a daughter of L. M. Howell, one of the oldest and best known colored residents of the city. The young woman secured an education in the public schools here and made a splendid record. She evidenced a talent for art and devoted her attention to china painting. At this she became very proficient, and her work has won most favorable comment from artists.

Miss Howell comes from a family of talented colored people. Four members of it have graduated from the High school here and one of her brothers is now in the east studying law.
